Course description:

A survey of children's literature; materials in various formats suitable for use by and with children. Evaluation tools, application of selection and evaluation criteria, and planning for the use of materials.

Course objectives:

- Articulate the social and cognitive developmental levels of children and apply those levels to the understanding of children's right to read and view.
- Select quality literature that reflects and appeals to a wide range of diverse readers (e.g., diversity in race, ethnicity, culture, gender, sexual orientation, religion) and to analyze literature for cultural authenticity and absence of bias and stereotyping.
- Become familiar with a wide selection of children's literature appropriate for early childhood through middle school engagement.
- Recognize and select quality literature from all genres for children using a variety of resources and applying criteria for age-appropriateness and literary excellence across genres.
- Provide leadership in schools, public libraries, and the broader community to promote meaningful engagement with quality literature in all formats.
- Work individually and in collaboration with peers to research and present scholarship relative to children's literature in professional settings.

Required readings:

Textbook: Norton, D., (2011). Through the eyes of a child: An introduction to children's literature (8th ed.). Columbus, Ohio: C.E. Merrill Pub.

Additional readings required each week are posted in the week's module in Canvas

Additional class requirements: Bring a fully charged internet enabled device to class each week. A laptop or tablet is preferable, as there may be lengthy written assignments in class each week. Bring your textbook to class each week.

Grading:

- In-class participation & attendance: 20%
- Weekly and in-class assignments: 35%
- Genre study: 35%
- Group wiki pages for genre study: 10%

In-class participation & attendance: Students are expected to be in class each session and participate actively, and to the best of his or her ability, in oral discussions and group activities. Readings for that week's class will prepare students for active participation in discussions and group work. Attend all classes. One excused absence will not count against a student's grade if prior notice of absence is received. If the absence is due to an emergency and prior notice is not possible, please notify the professor as soon as you can.

Weekly and in-class assignments: Students will frequently have assignments that are due at the time class begins. See the week's module for assigned work and the due date and time. We will use time in class to build upon the assigned readings and written assignments, as well as exploring the course material in more depth. In most cases, students will be completing writing activities in class as well as engaging in discussions and group assignments. On occasion, these assignments will be extended to be due later in the week if there is not enough time to finish and submit during class. Students are expected to come to class prepared to actively participate each and every week. Please bring a fully charged, internet-connected device as well as the required children's book with you to class each week. A laptop is preferable. Assignments must be submitted via Canvas.

Genre study: Each week during the study of specific genre, you will complete an assignment for that genre that will benefit K-5 teachers, school librarians, and public librarians in Texas and beyond. As a member of a 3-4 person team, you will be assigned a grade level and each person on the team will choose an award winning title for each genre in which to develop activities for use in the classroom or library. Genre include poetry, realistic fiction, traditional literature, fantasy/science fiction, historical fiction, biography, and informational books. The activities will tie into the Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) for the grade level.

Group wiki pages for genre study: At the end of the semester your team will compile the titles and activities each of you developed, as well as the TEKS, and genre characteristics into a class wiki that can be accessed by teachers and librarians.

Course policies:

Review the course learning objectives, expectations, grading, and class schedule (below). Each student and the instructor must agree to contribute their very best work and agree to the below. One excused absence will not count against a student's grade. Prior notice of absence is required, unless the absence is due to an emergency before class. All assignments must be completed in order to make at least a C-. If a student fails to submit any major assignment, the highest grade attainable will be a C-. School of Information Grading Policy and UT Academic Integrity policy will be used.

Student responsibilities:

- Turn all assignments in on time. Late papers will receive one whole letter grade lower per day.
- Check and respond to email daily.
