

American Library Association

presents the 2006

Equality Award

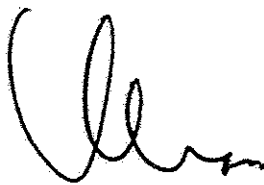

to

Dr. Loriene Roy

The American Library Association Equality Award Jury selects Dr. Loriane Roy as the winner of the 2006 award for positively impacting diverse groups with her contributions to education and research;

For advancing information technology and literacy among native populations, contributing to the development of virtual libraries and museums aimed at indigenous people and for serving as a strong proponent of recruiting native students into careers in librarianship and;

For efforts in the area of research, as the author of several publications, participation in numerous presentations, and the writer of countless journal articles that reflect a strong focus and commitment to equality in librarianship, as well as other worthwhile contributions, the Award Jury is pleased to honor Dr. Loriane Roy with the ALA Equality Award.

Keith Michael Fiels
Executive Director

June, 2006
New Orleans, Louisiana

Michael Gorman
President